

Dear Footlighters Friends and Patrons,

We hope you and your loved ones are safe and healthy in these unprecedented times. Your well-being is extremely important to us, which is why we've made necessary changes to our regularly scheduled productions.

We are heartbroken to announce that we are officially cancelling what would have been our April 2020 production of Annie Get Your Gun. While we were hopeful that Annie WOULD be able to get her gun at some point, the current public health recommendations and projections have made that dream impossible. We appreciate all the hard work our cast and crew did to bring Irving Berlin's rousing classic to our patrons.

Unfortunately, this also means our fall and winter shows Something Rotten! and A Gentleman's Guide to Love and Murder will be delayed until our 2021-2022 season. While we will have to wait a little longer to follow the Bottom Brothers' and Monty Navarro's zany antics, we are incredibly excited we still can bring these two phenomenal new musicals to our audiences, albeit a little later than anticipated.

As with many performing arts venues right now, every day brings a new challenge, and we don't know what the next few months will bring. As of right now, it is our intention to open Bonnie & Clyde on April 15th, 2021 but we understand we may need to make more difficult decisions as we get closer to that date. With that understanding, we will not be selling advanced tickets (or season subscriptions) this year in order to allow us the flexibility to adjust our seating capacity to comply with government regulations if need be, as well as be nimble with shifting show dates.

Thank you for your patience. Thank you for your support. We miss you, and we very much look forward to seeing you all at the theater when we reopen.

Sincerely,

The Footlighters, Inc Board of Directors
